“The Messenger”

A documentary film by Su Rynard, From Kino Lorber Cinema

The Messenger is a visually thrilling ode to the beauty and importance of the imperiled songbird, and what it means to all of us on both a global and human level if we lose them.

Date: April 9, 2016

Time: 1:00—4:30

Where: Henry A. Wallace
Education and Visitors Center

Birds are our strongest bond with nature, with the world on which we depend totally... Birds are giving a wake-up call as loud as all the cockerels on earth. We are at a point in time where a combination of climate change and loss of nature are the biggest, most pressing issues facing the planet, yet we have demonstrated that, with the right action, our conservation efforts can reverse the fortunes of individual species and sites.

~ Patricia Zurita, BirdLife International Chief Executive

After a brief break a viewing of the 20 minute film “Biomimicry” will be shown. Following the film we will break into small discussion groups to share concerns and ideas on climate change and sustainability.*

Biomimicry, the practice of looking deeply into nature for solutions to engineering, design and other challenges, has inspired a film about it's ground-breaking vision for creating a long-term, sustainable world.

This film covers how mimicking nature solves some of our most pressing problems, from reducing carbon emissions to saving water.

This film features Janine Benyus, is brought to you by Leonardo DiCaprio, Executive Producers Oliver Stanton, directed by Leila Connors, produced by Mathew Schmid and Bryony Schwan, created by Tree Media with Executive Producers Roe Sharon Peled and George DiCaprio.
